EASTER THOUGHT

This week end commemorates without a doubt the saddest and happiest event in history. An event which has been carried down thru the ages and even today is a vital period in every mortal's life. Centuries ago, the Prince of Peace, our Beloved Savior, Jesus Christ gave his life that our sins might be forgiven if we truly repented. Then, He arose from the dead that we might have Hope and Everlasting Life. By so doing, he dispelled the fear of the Grave, and for centuries people have rejoiced in our Lord's resurrection.

May we all be thankful at this Sad and Glad Easter Time that we have our Lord to follow. May we all pray that the Prince of Peace whose weapon was a kind word may lead his army of followers on to world peace when all mankind has forgotten the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill."

Leap Year Dance Next Week

The chance of a life time, girls! Well, at least you won't have it for four years again. And time's a'wastin'. The sponsors of this dance had all this in mind when they finally decided to call their spring party a Leap Year Frolic. These sponsors are the young people of St. Joseph church. The whole idea centers around the revival of the usual procedure when the men call for and supply the entertainment for the fair lady. This time she has the privilege of selecting the "man of her choice."

Just in case the girls don't know it here are some of the rules she should follow to be "correct":

1. She shall buy him a "coupage".
2. She shall take his arm when crossing the street.
3. He shall precede her when entering or leaving the car or building.
4. She shall check his coat, hat, and gloves.
5. She shall call for him, and escort him home.

The place where this gala affair is to take place is the R. of C. Hall in Kankakee on the evening of the 27th day of March. Earl Betourne and his band of Sweet Swing will supply the musical setting. Old and young alike are invited to come and join in the fun.

Committees in charge of the dance are: Arrangements, Imelda Dressler; tickets, Elaine Wright and Antonette; refreshments, Christine Krizan, Molly Starasich, and Henrietta Legris; check room, Arlene LaGesse, Wanda Dominick, and Mary DeVore; publicity, Muriel Wright.

Father Hugh V. O'Brien is the general chairman. It might be noted that the proceeds of this dance will be used to add to the funds for stained glass windows for the church.

The manner of giving, shows the character of the giver more than the gift itself.

Our greatest glory consists not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall.

There is an arm that never tires when human strength gives way; there is a love that never fails, when earthly loves decay.

HUNTER IN A CANOE TAKES TRIP OVERLAND

When an Illinois pioneer suffered an attack of inflammatory rheumatism while on a hunting trip in 1827 and was unable to walk, he began to ride overland in his canoe, according to the Illinois Writers' Project, W.P.A.

After his friends had harnessed a horse to the canoe and placed him in it, he began the homeward journey from Kankakee Marsh to a trading post in the Iroquois river. He soon found the trip too taxing and passed a winter night outdoors until material for a litter was obtained.

The greatest truths are the simplest, so are the greatest men.

Behind the Scenes of American Business

(By John Craddock)

BUSINESS

The peace (if it can be called peace) that nominally ended the "northern branch" of the European war last week has not only left the general peace situation as unpredictable as ever, but also seems to give no definite clue to new business on this side of the water to be affected. For one thing, the U. S. will continue its "moral embargo" against the Soviet, to discourage future aggression. No U. S. airplanes, aviation gas, or copper for the Reds. Business generally is clinging to the strategy of keeping commitments on a short-term basis because of the complete uncertainty of both domestic (political) and foreign (military) developments.

Nevertheless, the earth keeps turning, and spring keeps getting closer. That means spring selling campaigns are being launched. Advertising budgets generally are 5 to 10 per cent larger than for the 1939 drive, although they, too, are mostly short term. Automobiles, foods, electric appliances, and drugs and toilet goods are leaders in the spring business push over here.

WASHINGTON

Observers here view the opening of TNEC hearings on interstate "trade barriers" as a long overdue first step toward an eventual return of the American Citizen's right to trade without penalty in any part of the nation. Proponents of free trade say this privilege has been sbbing away with the building of such barriers as state "use" taxes, non-resident truck fees, special taxes on chain retailers, port-of-entry laws and margarine levies. The Council of State Governments, the Tax Policy league and the Department of Commerce, among others, have decried this trend. Among those others are some 700 farm, consumer and labor groups that have gone on record against chain store taxes. The contention is that the net and practically inescapable effect of trade barriers—set up to aid certain business groups at the expense of others—is to raise costs to consumers and lower returns to producers.

BITS O' BUSINESS

Steel production leveled off, even went up a tenth of a point, after two months of sinking, but the experts say it isn't really significant—the export market is the only outlet that looks very lively, and you know how that may wobble as the war wavers around . . . fall suit prices of manufacturers may not see any additional rise beyond the 75c to $1.25 boost given on spring suits, although prices on fall worsteds are expected to be 25 to 30 cents a yard higher than a year ago . . . oranges, lemons and grapefruit yields for this year all will be lower, the Department of Agriculture forecasts, the mid-winter freeze damage to Florida Valencia now appearing more severe than at first thought . . . the swim suit industry is looking for a good year, with production so far 85 per cent ahead of 1939 at the same stage—by units, that is; whether the total yardage of goods will expand similarly is doubtful, considering the trend in swim suit fashions for several years!

INTRAMURAL TRANSIT

Usually we think of America's great transportation system only in terms of cross-country transit. But one of its fastest-growing branches is strictly "intramural." More than 10,000,000 floor and hand trucks, indoor trailers and power trucks made up this unique transit system whose sole function is to whisk finished and unfinished goods quickly and efficiently about factories and warehouses, terminals and docks. In the past few years these vehicles have become increasingly like their out-door brothers, with streamlined bodies, engines under cabs and even miniature pneumatic and solid rubber tires. This trend is reflected in figures compiled by the B. F. Goodrich company, largest tire supplier in the field. During the first half of last year the sales of 233,000 solid and pneumatic industrial tires nearly equalled the entire 1938 total. Tire engineers have developed a special tire which has a filling of high-quality, cushioning rubber, eliminating all chance of flats.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR

A new receiver in the fast-blooming television business, showing a picture 5 by 6 1/2 inches and selling for $149.50—the biggest home sets, showing an 8 by 10 image, have been cut from around $600 to $395 . . . a completely transparent and flexible pickle bag, with the pickles swimming in their own brine . . . porch and lawn furniture made of woven, transparent plastic, in the wicker fashion, but even more impervious to weather than wicker ever was . . . sunglasses of polaroid, ground to specifications just like regular eyeglasses, so that folks who wear glasses anyway won't have to wear two pairs when dodging the sun . . . ice cream in a factory-sealed package that can be opened by giving a yank on a string imbedded around the waist of the fibre container . . . war-inspired names on your lipstick, such as Navy Red, Censored Red, Night Red, and Bombshell Red (gruesome, eh?)

was made by Kinneman and seconded by Dill to reconsider last motion passed and that this ordinance be considered at an adjourned meeting Monday, March 26th, 1940 at 7 p. m. Motion carried.

Attorney Streeter presented a copy of an agreement for a Sewer Easement between the First Trust & Savings Bank of Kankakee, Illinois and the Village of Bradley. After discussing this agreement it was recommended that Attorney Streeter take this up with attorney for the First Trust & Savings Bank for further consideration. Basketball Banquet

DOUG MILLS SPEAKER

The basketball banquet given for our much lauded heroes of the hardwood was held last Tuesday evening at 6:30 p. m. in the basement of the Bradley M. E. church. A record attendance of over eighty persons was on hand to partake of the handsome feast provided by the Legion Auxiliary and Methodist Ladies and sponsored by the Bradley Business Men's Association.

Earl Johnson, president of the Association, served as toastmaster. His first act in this capacity was to ask for a round of applause for the invited guests which was loudly given. He then gave a short introduction on the team and the unsung heroes which were the two fine coaches.

Jones next reviewed the record of the teams and gave some fine statistical data to show that Bradley indeed had a great team. In three years Bradley has won 16 trophies, five of which were obtained this year. Of 63 games played in two years, only 5 were lost. Among other things the team broke the armory attendance record at the Watska game, has beaten Kankakee eight consecutive times and lead the scoring in the conference.

As everyone knows Hahs broke the state record with 607 points and had fewer personal fouls than any regular with 31 fouls in 33 games. He averaged 18 points a game and 20 points in conference games.

Martin broke a record by making 16 points in 3 minutes of play and both he and Hahs leach scored 30 points in game during the year.

Laffy made mention of the fact that he wasn't as happy as he could be, due to the fact that Bradley fell short of the State. His only remark about the Bloom game was on that night the boys just didn't have it. He was very enthusiastic about the past three years but didn't seem as hopeful about the future. Bradley has had exceptional material in the past three years. He voiced the hope that the boys would go on to college which is an excellent suggestion. He thanked the B. B. M. A.

for the fine dinner and made mention of the fact that he was very proud of this year's squad.

Johnson called on the Honorary Captain, Len Martin, who was the nervous to say much. He said he was very proud of the team and enjoyed playing with them, and hoped they would go on to college.

Riel Hall gave a short address, and said that the publicity received by the team was due to deeds well done. He praised the more or less unpublicized members of the team as they made it possible for Hahs and Martin to score. He then introduced Doug, Mills, the speaker of the evening, who is coach at the University of Illinois.

Mills gave a very interesting informal speech in which he told of some personal experiences and several entertaining stories. He made it clear that criticisms of a team are mostly unjust and made by people who know little or nothing about the game. His opinion was that boys are only human and bound to make mistakes.

Basketball to Mills, besides being a fine sport, is excellent training for physical fitness and better citizenship due to the snap judgments necessary and the teamwork taught. He brought out the point that basketball material was in cycles and because there are 900 teams in the state, each team by ratio would go to the State once in every 56 years. Therefore Bradley isn't due to have a team that good for 54 more years since we went to the State last year.

He cautioned the boys about playing professional ball and held an open forum for any questions which those present desired answered. Following this, films of the Michigan and U. of I. game were shown.

SAVINGS THEORY DISCREDITED BY NATIONAL FORUM

(From The Townsend Weekly)
For generations we Americans have been taught that saving a portion of our earnings is a wise and necessary policy. Now the National Forum issues a chart on savings that challenges our reasoning along this line. Either we have taught incorrectly in regard to savings, or our economic system has changed so rapidly within the past twenty years that we must now make a new approach to the problem.

The National Forum chart reveals that in 1929 fifteen billion dollars were saved, and that of this only five billion were spent for new investment. This left some ten billion dollars saved—or out of circulation. So in 1929 there was ten billion dollars lying idle.

Production Out.
Now if only five billion dollars could be invested in the manufacture of new goods, this meant that in 1929 we had so much goods on hand that we had to cut down production. With goods flooding the market, manufacturing slowed down, unemployment spread—the Great Depression arrived.

If surpluses had not accumulated on the market, more than merely five billions could have been invested in manufacturing new goods. Instead of ten billion idle dollars there would have been ten billions more in circulation. But he surpluses accumulated because to one would buy them.

Yet in 1929 there were millions of Americans greatly in need of these goods. There was also ten billion dollars in the banks that could have been spent for them. Unfortunately, only a handful of persons owned the ten billions saved. And the needs of this handful were well taken care of. Money they did not save.

So there was this situation: millions of people with no savings instead of goods on the one hand, and in the other surpluses of goods. There was also ten billion dollars lying idle in banks.

Obviously logic would dictate that much of this ten billions of savings should have been taken from those who had no need of it and distributed to those who had need and who had no goods.

When goods would have been produced, the surpluses would have been absorbed, and the manufacture of new goods would have started up again, which would have, in turn, absorbed the un-

Plan Only Solution

There is no other answer to the facts presented by the National Forum: a tax on idle money and its enforced spending would have helped prevent the depression.

And since the depression still exists such a program is still a necessity.

But the question arises: if such a tax is levied—that is, a tax on idle money from those most able to pay—to whom should it be distributed for spending purposes? If it is given to the unemployed, would they go back to work when the surpluses are used up and manufacturing starts up again? If they are supplied with an adequate income, there would be no need for them to do so. The money, then, should be distributed to a different group.

If the money given to workers of an advanced age who have spent their lives laboring, there is an added justification in such a program of distributing idle money. Providing the aged with money they must spend is merely a kind of tribute or acknowledgment of their years of strenuous productive activity, and thereafter they can continue their social usefulness in a different, less arduous form.

So this chart that the National Forum has prepared is simply another argument for the Townsend Plan. For the Townsend Plan provides the sort of tax that would solve our economic problems by putting idle money to work so idle men can be put to work so everybody in America can enjoy plenty of everything.

WILL OUR CONGRESSMEN PROVE TRUE TO THEMSELVES

Now that our Congressmen are once more in session, we hope they will forget all about the political angle, and do away with the W.P.A. and C.C.C. and the rest of the letter tangle. By making the Townsend Plan a law, and end this terrible depression.

They should remember they are sent up there, to represent the people, and make laws the people want enacted. Instead of putting us in debt, by doing what they want to do, and keeping this depression so long protracted.

We wonder what they think we vote and send them up there for.

When we have to work so hard and put up such a fight afterward, and almost start a rebellion and a war, to get them to do right, and ship us out of our plight.

We hope they will forget self, and show a little of the love for our Country, and patriotism our soldier boys have shown. And remember, success, money and power, are only just a loan.

To be used by them for good, from the Higher Power Above. Money and power can't be taken with them, when they come to the end of the trail. But the good they have done for humanity, will count for a lot; when their soul is freed from their body, and at last sets sail. To stand before it's Maker; What Glory! To say it couldn't be bought.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Thirty-eight states in the union collect higher taxes than Illinois, according to a survey released by the United States Bureau of Mines. Only one state, Missouri, whose rate is two cents per gallon, collects less than Illinois. Eight states besides Illinois, the recognized leader in hard road construction and maintenance, levy a three cent tax on gasoline. They are California, Connecticut, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, and Rhode Island. Taxes in some states range as high as seven cents a gallon, while 19 states collect four cents for every gallon sold. The average rate over the Nation is almost one and a half cents higher than the rate in Illinois.

Estimated on the basis of consumption for the first ten months of 1939, a total exceeded only by California, New York and Pennsylvania. Ohio and Texas closely followed by Illinois.

Clinic for crippled children conducted by the State Division for Handicapped Children have been scheduled for five downstate cities in March. Necessity crippled children coming to these clinics will be examined free of charge by experts in orthopedic surgery and therapy.

A clinic was held at St. Francis hospital, Peoria, March 17. Others scheduled for the month are: Meunonite hospital, Bloomington, March 14; Civic Center, Freeport, March 20; St. Francis hospital, Belleville, March 23. All tours will start from the park naturalist's headquarters in the Starved Rock Lodge. Several reflector telescopes will be set up near the park naturalist's headquarters for use of the astronomical session which will be in the charge of William S. Butties of Chicago.

Illinoisans as a class are quite thrifty, judging by a statement recently released by the Secretary of the United States Treasury.

From March 1, 1935 through October 31, 1939, Illinoisans bought U. S. savings bonds of a maturity value which totalled $324,630,925, almost thirty million dollars more than New York, which ranked second with purchases amounting to $294,975,750. Pennsylvania was third with $191,061,600, Ohio fourth with a total fifth with $152,672,250.

More of these bonds, which are sold through postoffices at $25, $50, $75, and $100 ten-year maturity value units, were bought in Illinois than in the following states combined: North and South Dakota, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Montana, Maine, Nevada, Rhode Island, Utah, Wyoming, Vermont, Idaho, Delaware and Arizona and all foreign possessions.

Illinois counties received a total of $591,338 as their net share of the motor fuel tax collected by the state treasury during February. Their gross share was $862,328, from which was deducted $210,625 as reserve for payment of interest and principal on the $20,000,000 relief bond issue and $80,000 as reserve for the $20,000,000 issue. Peoria led downstate counties with an allotment of $17,373. Lake was second with $16,098 and Kane third with $16,044.

GLAD HAND FOR EARLY RURAL MAIL ROUTES

When rural free delivery was established in 1900, a few merchants in a number of Illinois towns were somewhat concerned about the effects of the new service on their trade with farmers. As weekly and semi-weekly trips to town for mail meant purchase of merchandise, business men were afraid that free rural delivery would keep farmers at home and thereby reduce trade in villages and towns. However, business continued to be as good as ever, and the new system proved popular with both merchants and farmers, according to the Illinois Writers' Project, W.P.A.

Many first mail routes were about 25 miles long with an average of 100 families to a route. Roads usually were bad during winter and sometimes a mailman did not get home with his horse and buggy until well into the night.

SULFAPYRADINE—THE MIRACLE WORKER IN A WAR ON PNEUMONIA

When loved one was stricken with pneumonia a few years back, and you looked deep into your physician's eyes to ask: "Isn't there something you can do?" in most cases he was forced to shake his head in helplessness. In those days dreaded pneumococcus took 100,000 lives annually. But a new miracle worker—sulfapyradine—has come into the medical picture, and will save the lives of approximately 50,000 pneumonia victims this year according to Stephen J. McDonough, medical journalist, who writes a dramatic personal story in the current Rotarian magazine.

Shortly after he released a sulfapyradine from his experimental stage, and a supply was rushed 500 miles to treat his case. Within a few days sulfapyradine was available. He was out of the hospital miraculously. Yes, declares this Rotarian contributor, but that's the way this new chemical works.

An allied drug of sulfanilamide, which was originally "just a brick-red powder—one of the coal tar dyes used to color cloth," sulfapyradine is unlike many other germicides, which annihilate germs. McDonough writes, "Sulfanilamide disease causing bacteria. Most and sulfapyradine smother the disease germs can grow only when they have enough oxygen, just like a human being. They use oxygen only by first converting it into hydrogen peroxide, the common gargling fluid. Sulfanilamide and sulfapyradine stop this oxygen conversion process and keep the germs from breathing until the white corpuscles of the blood consume them."

HOLE ACES

As more and more oil pools are discovered in Illinois our known reserve supplies of petroleum are increased accordingly. Naturally, new pools mean new wells, and new wells increase the flow from the underground reservoirs, perhaps faster than necessary. It should be evident, though, that one important point to be considered in this situation is the fact that since we will continue to require petroleum, we must also continue to investigate and explore—to know where it may be found. The only way of eventually acquiring such knowledge is by intelligently drill in for it in new areas or by drilling deeper in old fields where conditions offer economic promise. In order to establish the productive area of a new field, many wells must be drilled including dry holes beyond the boundaries. Thus exploration and drilling will continue in Illinois for some years. In the meantime much oil will have used, but undoubtedly much will remain in the ground for future use as needed; and we should know where it is stored.

ROADS AND ROLLING WRITERS

Almost every illiterate person at one time or another is driven by an inner urge to express himself. Pen in hand, he dreams of his name inscribed on the honor roll of immortal writers. Shakespeare, Dickens, and Mark Twain are boon companions to his reverie. The urge may be a mere flicker or it may lead to a course in college journalism. Every high school or college student has studied short story writing, a subject taught almost universally in American schools, remembers one emphatic rule, "write about your own backyard." He is cautioned above all else to interpret that locality with which he is familiar. But the "backyard" is lacking in characters and color, material for "stories." The amateur is alone in his conviction. Great professional writers have felt the need of more varied experience and a more diverse range of setting.

W. Somerset Maugham, acclaimed by many critics as the greatest living novelist, wandered far from his English shores in quest of materials. From his pen flowed many colorful stories of the white man's life in the Orient. Every scene in American life, ranging from the most picturesque American settings may now be reached without difficulty or hardship. They offer first-hand settings for novels and short stories and articles. The successful writer of fiction may now follow the weather. You see him Florida-bound with the wild duck and travelling north with the robin in springtime. Reporters rove the land in search of information for their syndicated newspaper columns. At least one writer is sponsored commercially in this type of enterprise made possible by good roads. Warren Bailey writes a syndicated feature called "Trailer Vagabond" for newspapers. The series of articles written by Mr. Bailey takes his readers to strange, interesting and prominent places in the United States, Canada and Mexico. A seed company sponsors his travels. Good roads and a facile pen are responsible for Mr. Bailey's interesting way of making a living.

Clarece Buddington Kelland, whose stories are read by millions, based a best seller on a cross-country trailer trip. Mr. Kelland's "backyard" was large. It was three thousand miles wide. Mr. Kelland was familiar with his "backyard" for his own trailer transported him from coast to coast before he wrote the novel. The American system of highways, a third of the world's total mileage could have also carried Mr. Kelland from Canada to Mexico had he been so inclined. With every passing day, more American writers are combining pleasure with profit as they "discover" America for themselves and their readers.

No other country in the world offers the facilities, advantages or scope of highway travel afforded by the United States, mecca of the rolling writer.

CHEVROLET SALES ARE CLIMBING! CLIMBING!

Retail sales of Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks continued in large volume throughout the second 10 days of February, totaling 21,523 for that period and 46,608 for the month to date, it was announced at the company's headquarters in Detroit.

This is an increase of 12,967 units or 38.5 per cent over sales for the first twenty days of February 1939. Sales in the second ten days increased by 4,985 units over those for the same period last year.

Used car volume also gained, both over the preceding ten days, and over the same period of 1939; according to the report. Used car sales for the second ten days were 43,335, making a total of 86,355 for the month, to date. Used car sales in the same period for 1939 were 71,524 units.

HARRY B. HERSHEY TO SPEAK IN KANKAKEE TUESDAY, MARCH 28

Harry B. Hershey, Democratic candidate for Governor, and other candidates associated with him who are seeking nomination in the primary April 9 will address a meeting in Kankakee, at 7 p. m. on Tuesday, March 28.

Hershey heads one of two caravans of Democratic campaigners now touring the state. The other is headed by James M. Slattery, who is seeking to succeed himself as United States Senator.

The Hershey-Slattery ticket, endorsed by every regular Democratic organization in the state, includes Louie E. Lewis for lieutenant governor; Edward J. Hughes to succeed himself as secretary of state; John C. Martin for state auditor; Homer Mat Adams for state treasurer; Harold G. Ward for attorney general, and two candidates for congress at large, T. V. Smith and Walter J. Orlikowski.

PRODUCE 400,000 BARRELS DAILY DURING FEBRUARY

Illinois' oil wells produced approximately 11,606,000 barrels of oil during February, an average of slightly more than 400,000 barrels a day. The monthly report of the State Geological Survey lists 251 producing wells brought in during the month out of a total of 289 completions.

Production of approximately 22,500,000 barrels during the first two months of 1940 makes Illinois a close rival of Oklahoma for third place in the list of the nation's oil producing states.

New pools were opened during February, one near Raymond in Montgomery county and the other near Iron in White county, where the first commercial production was secured from the Hardinsburg sandstone in Illinois. The State now has 54 producing fields downstate with 5,523 producing wells.

Kathleen Norris Says:

We All Have to Pay the Piper for Our Mistakes

(Shell Syndicate - WNU Service)

Several years after their divorce Mary and Paul met and discovered they loved each other still. The results were a second divorce for Paul and his marriage to Mary.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

WHEN we are young we call the tune, and when we are old we pay the piper.

It's a terrifying thing to think of, but it's one of the inescapable facts of life. The cross you make for yourself in youth you carry in old age, nobody else can carry it for you, and there's no putting it down.

That's why fathers and mothers waste their breath advising and warning. Don't drive so fast, darling. Don't start going with that particular crowd, dear. Don't eat too much. Don't drink too much. Don't marry until you really love, and when you do marry don't quarrel, don't waste money, don't flirt, don't be extravagant.

If this generation of children listened, and profited by advice, and if the next generation did the same, and if the parents themselves were wise good men and women who hadn't made serious mistakes themselves, what a world of high character and nobility and happiness we would have in a hundred years!

But alas, the parents are often busy making mistakes of their own, and from all sides, human lives get into terrible tangles, and only superhuman powers can straighten them out. Prayer will, humility and patience and faith will, but who believes that in reference to the tiresome little tangles of every day? We save our prayers for the great crises of life, and even then usually bestow them generously on someone else. That Norma's baby will come safely. That dear George will get well. That Betty won't be so impatient with Gerald. We rarely pray that we ourselves will change, because one of the first things a baby learns, and one of the convictions that sticks to him most firmly, is that he is all but perfect.

If you've made a mistake and you have to pay for it sometimes it helps a lot to face the music honestly and say, "I was wrong. I was young and ignorant and hot-headed and blind, and I made a serious mistake. All right. That's past. Now for the future, without mistakes!"

A Ridiculous Mistake.
In a letter that lies on my desk a woman who calls herself "Mary, Paul's wife," tells me of a rather ridiculous mistake she and her husband made, and of the price they have to pay for it.

They were married 12 years ago, and had two boys, now 10 and eight. Six or seven years after marriage hard times came, Paul lost his job, his wife went to work, and domestic trouble ensued. They were divorced by her wish, although she says when it came right down to leaving Paul she cried for four days and nights.

She married a man named Ben, and Paul married a girl named Maude. Ben died, and two years ago Paul's first wife met him again. He is very prosperous now; he was not happy with Maude, and he and Mary very soon discovered that they loved each other still. He needed his boys, and the upshot of that accidental meeting was a second divorce for Paul and his remarriage to Mary. They are now ideally happy, have a third small son only a few months old, and would be one of the world's contented couples if it were not that Paul has to pay Maude $200 a month. That eats into Mary's very soul.

"Maude is well paid anyway," she writes. "She has a car, a beautiful apartment, and a maid. She goes away summers, entertains, dresses perfectly. We are paying almost a third of Paul's remaining income for our home, have three children, and only occasional help with housework. Is it fair that the money that would give me a good dress and great comfort must go to

Pay the Piper

When we are young we call the tune and when we are older we pay the piper, says Kathleen Norris.

It's an inescapable fact of life. Nobody else can carry your cross for you. There's no putting it down. That's why fathers and mothers waste their breath advising and warning. If all the warnings and advice were heeded we'd have a wonderful world in a few generations. But unfortunately people go right on making mistakes.

And when the time comes to pay up, the best thing to do is to accept the bill and start paying. If it's money trouble, according to this writer, you have much for which to thank God. For many other troubles are worse.

this selfish woman who lived with Paul only two years, never made him a home, or showed him any real affection, and she costs the money. Of course, ridiculous $200 must be taken out of our income every year for a woman who means nothing to either of us.

They Must Pay the Piper.
"When we remarried and made this arrangement, we felt that Maude would marry again, but she shows no disposition to do so, and as she is beginning her forties she probably will not. I don't know what we can do about it, but it does seem that we should do something."

My dear Mary: There is nothing you can do about it except pay the piper, and thank God that the mistake you made wasn't of a more serious nature and isn't going to cost you even more. Actually hundreds of thousands of families lost all their hard-saved capital eight or ten years ago, through speculation or unfortunate investments, and they have to pay the piper. Millions pay the piper with chronic indigestion and headache, because they WOULD eat and drink indiscreetly. An innocent small girl pays the piper because her mother would take her driving in a bitter wind, and the mastoid operation that followed a head-cold cost her her hearing.

Unhappy, and unsuccessful lives are all paying the piper; paying him for parental stupidities, for bad home influences, for lack of guidance or intelligence or grace. Slums and drunkenness and poverty and illness are all preventable, and while we let them exist someone is going to pay the piper for each and every one. War is the cruelest and stupidest mistake human beings make, and how we pay for it, and how our children's children will pay for it someday!

So stop worrying about the money Paul has to pay Maude. You and he both acted like undisciplined children when hard times came; you didn't stick to him as a wife should, and the discovery that you did love each other, after the quarrel, is what you are paying for. Forget Maude; forget the details; only say to yourself that you won't make that mistake again, and will try to prepare your boys for marriage along better lines than your own were. See that they know fine girls, and are ready to assume the responsibilities of life, courageously and wisely, and you'll more than make up for the errors in your own life, expensive as they seem.

Mary Should Be Grateful.
When your worst trouble is money, you have much for which to thank God. A cruel or drinking husband, a crippled child, circumstances that separate you from those who love and need you, physical suffering from some chronic disorder, grinding poverty, quarrelsome atmospheres—these are real troubles.

NEW FREIGHT CARS FOR ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

The Illinois Central System has announced the placing of an order for 62 covered-top hoppers bottom freight cars to be built by the General American Transportation Corporation. The order represents an expenditure of approximately a quarter of a million dollars.

Covered-top hopper-bottom cars are a relatively new development in railroad equipment. They are used for bulk loading of certain commodities, such as cement going into construction work for which cement-handling equipment has been designated to require deliveries in hopper bottoms. Other commodities to be transported in such equipment include bauxite, ore, fluorapatite and lime. The covered tops make the cars weatherproof and protect the shipment from moisture and disintegration, and the hopper bottoms make for ease of unloading.

The 62 cars ordered by the Illinois Central will be of 70-ton capacity. Deliveries are to be made beginning in May.

TUBERCULOSIS DEATH RATE DECLINES

There were 99,932 deaths from tuberculosis (all forms) in the United States in 1938, according to a Illinois Tuberculosis Association. This makes a death rate of 43.6 per 100,000 population as compared to 71 per 100,000 population in 1930.

"With the general decline in the tuberculosis death rate, there have been corresponding declines in both sexes and at all ages," the statement declares. "But the declines have not been uniform. The greatest decreases have occurred in children up to fifteen years of

ROCKY ROADS

Since the days of the Roman engineers many refinements have been introduced in the use of rock as a road material; however, rock and rock products continue to be the chief road-making materials. The road surfaces of any particular area are made of local materials, so far as possible. Thus it is that in some states granite is utilized while other states make use of limestone, gravel, basalt or other rocks of the lava type, according to what supplies are available. In Illinois the most suitable available materials are limestone and gravel, which can be secured from plants equipped to make the proper preparation. In the building of Illinois roads last year, 6,729,280 tons of crushed limestone, and more than 3,000,000 tons of gravel were used. In addition, some 2,000,000 barrels of cement (made from limestone) were used in laying concrete highways that now traverse the State in an ever spreading net-work.

Said Combined Water and Sewerage Fund, as heretofore provided for, shall be used solely and only, and is hereby pledged for the purpose of paying the principal and interest of the bonds herein authorized to be issued, and all bonds outstanding which by their terms are made payable from the revenues of the combined waterworks and sewerage system, to pay the cost of operation and maintenance, and provide an adequate depreciation fund, which depreciation fund shall be accumulated at an annual rate of at least one-half of one per cent (½ of 1%) of the value of the combined waterworks and sewerage system.

SECTION 11. That the Village of Bradley hereby covenants and agrees with the holder or holders of the bonds herein proposed to be issued, or any of them, that it will punctually perform all duties with reference to said combined system required by the Constitution and Laws of the State of Illinois, including the making and collection of sufficient rates for services and aggregating the revenues of said system and the application of the respective funds created by this ordinance, and it hereby covenants and agrees not to sell, lease, loan, mortgage or in any manner dispose of said combined system, including any and all extensions and improvements that may be made thereto, until all of the bonds hereunder authorized to be issued shall have been paid in full, both principal and interest, or unless and until provision shall have been made for the payment of all such bonds and interest thereon in full; and the Village further covenants and agrees with the holders of said bonds to maintain in good condition and continuously operate said combined system until all of said bonds, both principal and interest, have been paid in full.

SECTION 12. Provisions of this ordinance shall constitute a contract between the Village of Bradley and the holders of the bonds herein authorized to be issued, and after the issuance of the bonds, no changes, additions or alterations of any kind shall be made hereto in any manner except in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance, or until such time as all of said bonds issued hereunder and the interest thereon shall be paid in full, or unless and until provision shall have been made for the payment of all such bonds and interest thereon in full.

SECTION 13. SECTION 14. Said Combined Water and Sewerage Fund and accounts, both of the Collector and Treasurer, shall be audited at least once in each year by a recognized public accountant, and such audit and accounts shall be open for inspection at all proper times to any taxpayer, or user of said combined system, or any holder of bonds issued under the provision of this ordinance, or any one acting for or on behalf of such taxpayer, user or bondholder. Reports of the operation of the said combined system shall be furnished to the President and Board of Trustees monthly, and copies of the same shall be furnished to any bondholder upon request.
